Holly Beach project is in budget

The state capital outlay budget bill being considered by the Louisiana Legislature includes $500,000 in Priority 1 for the Holly Beach sewer planning a construction. Included in Priority 5 is $4.5 million.

Because a project is listed in the bill does not mean it will be funded.

The funding is allocated using a priority system. Priority 1 funds are usually dispersed within the fiscal year, while money for higher numbered priorities may take years to become available.

Priority 5 projects don't require cash expenditures during the fiscal year.

Food boxes to be distributed

As of April 17, Food For Seniors Boxes can be picked up either Thursday in Grand Lake from 12 noon to 3 p.m. or on Friday in Cameron 8 a.m.-3 p.m. There will be no more home deliveries.

If you do not turn in 2008 proof of income by May 16, at the main office, you will no longer receive a food box. If you have any questions call Toni at 598-5158 or Julie at 540-5549.

After the litter was picked up, refreshments were given out at the community center. There were also numerous door prizes. A camp canopy, coffee mugs, game sets, tackle boxes, ice chests, and also cash donations were available as prizes. Sempra made donations towards the refreshments for the volunteers.

The grand prize was a framed picture of the "the Old Spanish Trail", donated by Cameron Communications.

Creole Nature Trail to be seen on Today show

(American Press)

The Creole Nature Trail All-American Road will soon be seen on NBC-TV's "Today" show.

Scholastic Parent & Child names the trail one of five fantastic family trips to take this summer in its April issue. In the piece, the Creole Nature Trail is lauded as the "coolest way to get nose-to-snout with an alligator."

"Though it's a national scenic byway, this trail is traffic-free," the magazine states. "As it takes you from Lake Charles through the towns, bayous, and beaches of southwest Louisiana, you'll see other birds and beasts, too, like turtles, crabs, and herons."

On April 29, the editor of Scholastic Parent & Child will appear on "Today" to talk about these five destinations and show video footage of the Creole Nature Trail All-American Road.

Also, LA Life magazine has named the trail one of 10 "great outdoor destinations" in the state in its spring edition. In the article, by Jeanne Frois, the trail is described as "a microcosm of almost all that was created on earth."

"From the migratory splendor of the birds and the alligators sunning themselves on the roadside to witnessing the actual curve of the earth as you reach the Gulf of Mexico, driving the trail is like a visual lesson from Stephen Hawking, Charles Darwin and the Book of Genesis," Frois writes.

The writers of both articles toured Southwest Louisiana in recent months.

Rebuilding S. Cameron High, S. B. office to be advertised

By CYNDI SELLERS

All the planning and wrangling with FEMA have finally paid off, and the rebuilding of South Cameron High School and School Board Central Office are now ready to be advertised for bids.

Supt. Stephanie Rodrigue announced Monday afternoon at the regular Cameron Parish School Board Meeting that FEMA gave verbal notice on March 28 that the projects were approved to go to bid.

Central Office architect Gayle Zembower expects to begin advertising on April 24, since the plans have already been approved by the state fire marshal. Approval of the low bidder will come at the board's June meeting.

South Cameron High School plans are still under fire marshal review. The project, designed by architects Curtis Vincent and Steven Shows, is 82% bigger than the central office, but it is expected to go out for bids on May 29, with approval of a contractor at the July meeting.

Rodrigue is hopeful that contractors can begin mobilizing on the sites by August. South Cameron School has a projected completion date of June 2010.

Gaining FEMA approval for the consolidation, change of location, and improved project status of South Cameron High took a lot of time and energy, as did approval of every detail of the architect's plans. Three schools are being combined into one, Cameron Elementary, South Cameron Elementary, and South Cameron High.

The Central Office (administration building) received approval for change of location to Marshall Street in Cameron, the site of the former Cameron Elementary School.

LAND PURCHASE

The board approved the purchase of 14.08 acres adjacent to Johnson Bayou School at a price of $281,576, or $20,000 per acre. Some of the property had been under lease by the School Board for years, other parcels were needed to extend the athletic area and clarify boundaries.

The purchase had been negotiated by District Attorney Cecil Sanner, and the price was approved by the board's auditors.

Finalization of the purchase had been a goal of the late Clifton "Bobo" Morris, who represented the community on the School Board for many years. Funds for the purchase will come from the Cheniere PILOT tax advance program.

Approval was given to use the remaining Johnson Bayou bond issue money to construct a softball field.

RIGHT OF WAY

The board granted Manti Operating Company a right of way across School Board property to access a drilling site in the Lacassine Refuge for a consideration of $20,000 plus annual payments ranging from $1000 to $10,000 per year. The Department of Natural Resources was also granted a right of way to place and maintain a Coastal Reference Monitoring System on section 16-12-10 in the Black Lake-Hackberry area.

Reopening post offices is sought

By CYNDI SELLERS

Former Postmistress Dot Theriot is again asking for help in getting the Post Offices in Grand Chenier and Creole re-opened. Both Post Offices existed before the storm, and Theriot thinks they should be replaced.

She asks anyone who agrees with her to call Sen. Mary Landrieu, 436-6650; Sen. David Vitter, 436-0453; and Congressman Charles Boustany, 433-1747 to let them know about the need.

"This is an election year, and your voice counts," Theriot says, "All you need to tell them is we need both the Creole and Grand Chenier Post Offices re-opened and would appreciate their help in getting this accomplished."

SCHOOL BOARD

A request from the Lake Charles Harbor and Terminal District for a right of way to lay a temporary pipeline across the same school section, for the purpose of delivering dredge spoil to a marsh creation site, was tabled for further review. The applicant was offering no compensation, and it was not known if the pipeline would actually cross the section.

DENTAL PLAN

A new dental plan will be offered to employees for review, with a vote next month. Employees had been asking for a better dental plan, Rodrigue said, and the one proposed by James Odom, Jr., of First Financial Group of America, offers significantly better coverage for only a 6% increase in cost.

The law firm of Hammonds and Sill, Attorneys at Law, was formally hired by the board to assist with ongoing litigation. The hourly rates will be $150 per attorney and $75 per paralegal. The School Board is in litigation with its property insurance companies over Hurricane Rita damage awards and with the Corps of Engineers over a misplaced levee.

In Executive Session, the board discussed these issues and heard individual appeals to school management issues (expulsions). The Board voted to uphold the actions taken, with Loston McEvers abstaining because the students' attorney also represented him.

PERSONNEL

The board granted payment of 25 days unpaid sick leave to Sandra Smith, Grand Lake teacher, and accepted the resignations of Ronald Aplin, Grand Lake Spanish interpreter, and Keith Portie, Hackberry High School sweeper.

The board voted to advertise for reading coaches for PreK-4 and for a project manager to supervise FEMA construction projects.

Agency board meeting set

The Cameron Community Action Agency board of directors will hold their quarterly meeting on Monday April 28, at 12 noon at the Grand Lake Fireman Center.

Dear Local Merchant,

Number 5 Reason why you should increase your advertising. . .

5. You say your customers know you and for a while at least they'll keep coming in even if you don't promote? That's partly true, but shortsighted. Remember, one of five Americans moves every year. So there's a steady flow of customers out of your market and a corresponding influx of new folks who don't know you at all. Tell them about yourself.

Cameron-1 of 10 hot bird spots in nation

By CYNDI SELLERS

"Here we come again. It must be spring and it must be migration time because LOS is heading to Cameron." So writes Joelle Finley, secretary of the Louisiana Ornithological Society which will hold its spring quarterly meeting at the Creole Community Center on Friday and Saturday, April 25-26.

Over 100 binocular-, telescope-, and camera-toting birders are expected to converge on Cameron Parish in hopes of a "fall out," that wonderful event when a cold front hits just as the migrating songbirds are trying to reach the coastal trees. The birds are so tired that they hang in the branches without moving for several hours, making identification of many species easy.

The jewel-like colors of spring migrants are part of the attraction, but Cameron's location on two major flyways makes it ideal for adding many species to one's "life list," including some rare sightings of birds usually seen only in the western states.

For these reasons, Cameron Parish has been named one of the ten birding hot spots in the nation, and the LOS has been coming here twice a year for decades.

A field trip has been organized for birders not familiar with the Cameron area. Led by LOS Board Member Ed Wallace, the field trip might also be useful to novice birders, teachers, and others who want to learn more about Cameron Parish birds. The group will leave the Cameron Motel parking lot at 8 a.m. on Saturday, April 26. Access to several private sites has been arranged by Marianna Tanner Primeaux.

Educational programs will be presented at the Friday and Saturday evening meetings at the community center. There is a registration fee of $10 for the programs, which will be given at 7 p.m. on Friday and 7:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Snacks will be provided on Friday by JoAnn Nunez of the Cameron Parish Tourist Commission, and a dinner, catered by David Trahan, will be offered for $10 on Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

A highlight of the Saturday meeting is always the count of the species seen by all the participants during the day, usually over 190.

FLAMINGOS HAVE FLOWN

One species which will not be counted this year is the Greater Flamingo. The two birds seen last year near Cameron have been photographed at Bolivar Flats near Galveston, Tex.

A close-up of the leg bands proved that these two birds are indeed the same ones seen here. The April 12 photograph can be viewed at the website: www.pbse.com/mbb/image/95581353.

NEW CHURCH CENTER IS DEDICATED SUNDAY
 By GENEVA GRIFFIN
 "With the dedication and blessing of this new youth center and church hall a dream of mine has now been fulfilled."

These were the words of Father Anthony Bruzas who was in Cameron Sunday to participate in ceremonies dedicating the newly completed hall and center of St. Rose of Lima Catholic Church on the Front Ridge road.

Rev. Bruzas, who is now the chaplain of St. Joseph Home for the Aged in Jefferson City, Missouri, was pastor of the Sacred Heart Church in Creole when the mission church of St. Rose of Lima was rebuilt and dedicated in May, 1964.

The original church had been built and dedicated on July 7, 1895, by the first Catholic priest to serve Cameron Parish, Rev. John Engerbrink.

Father Engerbrink arrived in Cameron Parish in 1890 and immediately started establishing the lower Cameron Parish churches.

The mission church, called "St. Hubert" was built on the Front Ridge to serve the Catholic Negroes in Cameron.

The church was totally destroyed on June 27, 1957, during Hurricane Audrey. (Editor's note - The church was destroyed again by Hurricane Rita in 2005).

Over 50 percent of the Negro families living in that part of the parish lost their lives and most of those who remained had lost all or most of their possessions also, so there was no thought of replacing the church at that time.

Father Bruzas arrived in Cameron Parish in 1962 and stayed until 1968. He started plans to replace the church and Bishop Maurice Schexnayder, Archbishop of the Diocese of Lafayette provided the means.

Bishop Schexnayder had received a generous donation from a parishioner in Detroit, Mich., who chose to remain anonymous, who wanted the money to be used to build a small Catholic church, but with the stipulation that it be named after his mother, Rose.

Using this donation, which the Bishop channeled to the local church, St. Rose of Lima Church started rising on the location where St. Hubert church had once stood, and Mass was held there for the first time in May, 1964.

The small congregation could not afford at that time to build a youth center and church hall until all the debt had been paid off on the main part of the church.

Last year, under the leadership of Msgr. M. J. Bernard, the present church pastor, a Catholic Youth Organization was started in the church and the youth started a drive to build the new Center.

The hall will not only be used for the various youth meetings, but also for the various functions of the men and women organizations.

Parishioners point with pride to the stained glass windows in front of the church, which were a personal gift of Bishop Schexnayder which stands as a constant reminder to them of the personal interest of the "great old man of God" in the welfare of these people.

The blessing of the new facility was held Sunday following the morning Mass. It was conducted by Rev. Bruzas assisted by Msgr. M. J. Bernard and altar boys, Willie LaSalle and Dwayne Williams.

Pecans rich in antioxidants; suggestions for use given (NAPSA)-There's a new reason to go nuts for pecans. The latest research from the U.S. Department of Agriculture confirms pecans are the most antioxidant-rich tree nut.

Antioxidants are substances found in foods that protect against cell damage and, studies have shown, can help fight diseases such as Alzheimer's, Parkinson's, cancer and heart disease. Overall, pecans are ranked in the top 20 when it comes to foods with the highest antioxidant capacity. To include more pecans in your diet, try these tips from the National Pecan Shellers Association:

- Sprinkle pecans on pancakes or waffles, in fruit-flavored yogurt or on top of hot or cold cereal.
- Top salads and veggies with pecans instead of cheese.
- Coat chicken or fish with pecans before baking.
- Bring about 20 pecan halves to work and snack on them throughout the day.

LUNKER BASS PROGRAM

In 1997, the Louisiana Lunker Bass Program was created to promote Louisiana Largemouth Bass Fisheries from December through April, Anglers who legally catch a 12 pound or larger largemouth bass in Louisiana waters may donate the fish to the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries for spawning, for exhibits or for research purpose.

Once the fish is accepted by LDWF personnel, anglers will receive a certificate of appreciation from the Booker Fowler fish hatchery. Any fingerlings that are produced from the lunker fish, may be used to restock the lake from which the lunker parent fish came from.

This is a great way to pay back to our Louisiana waters, from what we take out of. Remember, bass that hasn't yet spawn.

SALTWATER FISHING

Although we've had strong southeast winds and a touch of winter weather this past week, saltwater anglers are out trying their luck.

Big Lake had cleared some but the winds muddied up the water towards the middle and northern part of the lake. A good area to catch fish is the southeast part of the lake and fish the weirs for redfish, I don't hesitate to fish cuts for flounders.

An angler should catch a limit of reds, then move on and trout fish, as that could be the most time consuming. Although fishing the oyster reef with plastic works well for trout, this is the time of the year for topwater baits. It's a great feeling to have a large trout blow water and take a topwater bait. Topwater fishing is usually good before summer patterns set in.

The Mermentau River is experiencing the same, but jetty fishing has been good, as well as the jetties in Cameron. Sometimes you just have to go a couple hundred yards away from the jetties, east or west, and trout as well as redfish will be where the water has more salt than if fresher water is coming out the jetties.

FRESHWATER FISHING

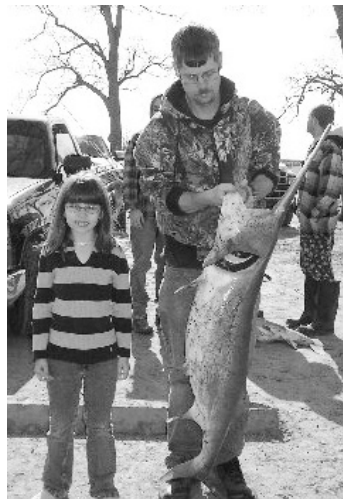

If your fishing the Big Burn, always remember to throw out watermelon/red plastic. This color seems to bring a hit, where other colors don't. Another good color is watermelon/candy and I like baby bass or cotton candy colors. If I fish a lizard, my favorite color is Zoom's Ground/green. Sometimes I wonder if it's the color, or just plain luck.

Fishing the deep canal has paid off for most anglers who fish the Big Burn or Amoco, and it helps get you out of the wind, but fishing Lacassine Refuge, there's really no getting out of the wind. If you don't anchor off, fish a while and move, your trolling motor won't make the day.

TOLEDO BEND

The Toledo Bend area has plenty of water, over 172 feet, but its a little dangerous traveling, as some of the stumps you could see, are now underwater, so slow down a little. I was told, south Toledo is clear, but the farther north you go, it's dirty.

We have quite a few local anglers planning on fishing the first annual Toledo Bend Oilman's Classic Team Tournament on April 25-26. Activities to include weigh-ins, will be at the Cypress Bend Resort. This is the old S. E. Texas Oilmen's Classic. It's limited to the first 500 teams, with two persons per team. Each team must register with the tournament committee between 12 and 8 p.m., April 24, at the Cypress Bend Resort.

BRAD LESTER and daughter Courtney are shown with the 41 pound spoonbill catfish they caught on a vacation in Oklahoma recently.

THE MOM & BABY mobile health center was parked at the Hackberry Health Clinic Monday. Employees of the Cal-Cam Hospital and Julie Galley, nurse practitioner, were on hand to give tours. The van will pay regular visits in the future. It is sponsored by the March of Dimes and the Qatar Katrina Fund.

Fruits & vegetables essential to good health

(NAPSA)-Here's food for thought: There is no need to compromise nutrition for convenience. Fruits and vegetables are staples of a well-balanced diet but over 75 percent of Americans don't get their full servings of them every day. Keeping your pantry and freezer stocked with canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, however, can make that easier.

No matter the occasion or time of year, with these easy tips you can add powerful antioxidants and nutrients to your diet without sacrificing great taste.

- Switch up your morning routine: Smoothies and fresh squeezed juices are a great substitute for the morning bagel or doughnut. Whether they are from your blender or your local juice bar, smoothies and fresh juices are delicious, easy ways to get extra servings of fruits/veggies from your breakfast.
- Let fruits lighten up your meal: Try "pumping up" your pasta sauce by simply stirring 1 cup of Libby's® 100% Pure Pumpkin into 3 cups of your favorite jarred or homemade pasta sauce. This will also work well with soups and stews. You'll not only increase the volume of your sauce, soups and stews but you'll automatically reduce the levels of fat, sugar and sodium. Your family will never notice the difference.

- Mix it up: Even the healthiest eaters can get tired of plain old carrots and celery. The next time you are at the grocery store, go out on a limb and try something new. Pick up more-exotic fruits and vegetables like kale, broccolini or mangoes; you might just discover your next favorite food.
- Make dessert count: Dessert is a typically overlooked time to add in fruits and veggies. Tonight, try topping low-fat ice cream with frozen berries or try a delicious pumpkin dessert such as "Pumpkin Perfect"

Oatmeal Cookies. Both provide you with an antioxidant-packed sweet finale.

"PUMPKIN PERFECT" OATMEAL COOKIES

(Makes 18 servings)

Ingredients:
 1 pkg. (17.5 oz.) oatmeal cookie mix
 1/2 cup Libby's® 100% Pure Pumpkin
 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
 1 large egg
 1 cup sweetened dried cranberries, raisins or nuts (optional)

PREHEAT oven to 375° F. COMBINE cookie mix, pumpkin, oil and egg in large bowl. Stir in dried cranberries, if desired. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls, about 2 inches apart, onto ungreased baking sheets. BAKE for 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned and set in centers. Cool on baking sheets for 1 minute; remove to wire racks to cool completely.

Colorful foliage plants are always in bloom--some use

By LSU AgCenter Horticulturist

When you think about adding color to your landscape, flowering bedding plants are usually the first thing that comes to mind. Many plants with colorful foliage, however, can serve the same purpose. These plants will often stay attractive and colorful longer and with less care than flowering bedding plants.

Since the color these plants provide is from their foliage, they are never out of "bloom." As long as they are alive and healthy, they provide color.

One of the best known and popular plants with colorful foliage is the caladium. This plant is a perennial that grows from a tuber and is excellent for part shade to shade. The foliage colors are attractive combinations of green, white, pink, rose, red and chartreuse. Depending on the cultivar, caladiums can grow to be 10 inches to 24 inches tall.

Over the next few weeks you can plant unsprouted tubers (the best buy) or plants growing in pots (they're more expensive, but you get immediate color). If you left caladium tubers in the ground last year, they should sprout sometime this month. So keep an eye out for them. If you dug and stored your tubers last fall, you can plant them now through mid-May.

Plant caladium tubers about 2 inches deep and 8 inches to 12 inches apart in beds generously amended with organic matter.

Coleus is a tender perennial that's generally killed by winter freezes. Some coleus cultivars, such as the Wizard series and the Kong series, do best in partial shade. Other coleus cultivars thrive in full sun, such as Alabama, Red Ruffles, Pineapple and the Solar series.

Depending on the cultivars you choose, coleus will grow from 10 inches to 30 inches tall. Many cultivars will grow naturally bushy and full, but I generally pinch out the growing tips occasionally to encourage branching and control their size. It's also a good idea to pinch off the rather unattractive flower spikes as they appear in late summer.

Amaranthus is an annual that loves summer heat and is commonly known as Joseph's coat. The brilliant, sometimes-neon colors of their foliage may be a little too much for some gardeners, but others will find their bold colors invigorating in the landscape. These plants grow 3 feet to 5 feet tall and are best used in the back of the bed or border in full sun.

Amaranthus is easy to grow from seed and may be available as young plants at the nursery. Don't be disappointed by the foliage color of young plants - the color develops as the plants mature. Cultivars such as Illumination, Molten Fire, Aurora and Joseph's Coat will bedazzle you with foliage colored magenta, burgundy, red, green, yellow and gold.

Alternanthera is related to amaranthus and also is commonly called Joseph's coat, although these sun-loving plants are much smaller than amaranthus. Some only grow to be a few inches tall and are excellent for edging beds and in pots, while others may grow to be 2 feet tall or more.

New cultivars of alternanthera show up every year, indicating the popularity of colorful foliage plants. Colors are generally red, yellow, pink or white combined with green. Short cultivars include Red Threads, Summer Flame, Nana Aurea and Snowball. Taller cultivars are Purple Knight, Gail's Choice and Party Time.

Bloodleaf or chicken gizzard plant (Iresine herbstii) is similar to the taller-growing alternantheras and is also a valuable plant with colorful leaves for summer color.

One of my favorite colorful foliage plants is the copper plant, Acalypha wilkesiana. It is a tall, shrubby plant that thrives in full to part sun. As long as winters are mild and plants are well-mulched, it is reliable about surviving for years in the garden. The foliage is generally shades of chocolate, copper, red, green, yellow and chartreuse. The leaves may be fringed or crinkled. This tough plant grows 3 feet to 5 feet tall and will perform well all summer with little care.

MORE CHOICES

In addition to the plants I've mentioned, you can find many others available and worth considering. Notably, you can't go wrong with ornamental sweet potatoes. This running vine with foliage generally dark purple or chartreuse will cover large areas. Cultivars include Blackie, Margarita, Black Beauty and Tricolor.

I also recommend duranta Cuban Gold; graptophyllum Black Beauty, Chocolate and Tricolor; pennisetum Purple Fountain; Persian shield (Strobilanthes); perilla Magilla; variegated shell ginger (Alpinia); and setcreasea Purple Heart.

All of these plants will thrive in the heat and humidity of the coming summer, and you will find many more available at your local nursery. If you have only focused on flowers in the past, you will find colorful foliage plants offer a whole new opportunity to provide abundant color in the summer landscape.

Five foot problems men should not ignore

(NAPSA)-Feet are the Rodney Dangerfield of body parts; they don't get no respect.

That's especially true for men's feet. Men often resist going to the doctor when they're sick or in pain. But most foot conditions are treatable, and easier to treat when diagnosed early.

The American College of Foot and Ankle Surgeons (ACFAS) wants men to know about five foot problems they should never ignore:

1. Heel pain is often caused by tissue inflammation, but can also result from a broken bone, a tight Achilles tendon, a pinched nerve or other problem. A qualified physician will know how to diagnose and treat the true cause of heel pain.

2. Ankle sprains always, always, always require a prompt visit to the doctor. Men who skip out on medical care are more likely to suffer repeated ankle sprains and then develop chronic ankle instability.

3. Big-toe stiffness and pain develop slowly over time, as cartilage in the big-toe joint wears down. This eventually leads to arthritis. The sooner a man has this diagnosed, the easier it is to treat.

4. Achilles tendonitis usually develops from a sudden increase in physical activity, such as when men play weekend sports. Chances of an Achilles tendon rupture can be reduced by treatment of the symptoms of Achilles tendonitis: pain and tenderness on the back of the foot or heel.

5. Ingrown toenails can pierce the skin, open the door for bacteria to enter the body, and convince some men to perform dangerous "bathroom surgery." Few men know that a doctor can perform a quick procedure that will end the pain and permanently cure an ingrown toenail.

For a list of five additional foot problems men should never ignore, visit the ACFAS Web site, FootPhysicians.com.

PUBLIC NOTICE LOUISIANA DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY (LDEQ) CAMERON LNG, LLC CAMERON LNG FACILITY PROPOSED PART 70 AIR OPERATING PERMIT MODIFICATION

The LDEQ, Office of Environmental Services, is accepting written comments on a proposed Part 70 air operating permit modification for Cameron LNG, LLC, P.O. Box 349 Hackberry, Louisiana 70645-0349 for the Cameron LNG Facility. The facility is located at 301 N Main Street in Hackberry, Cameron Parish.

Any natural gas that exceeds the interstate Btu content limits will be processed in a natural gas liquids recovery unit to remove a portion of the higher Btu components to meet specifications.

With this modification for an expansion, Cameron LNG proposes to add eight additional Submerged Combustion Vaporizers, two hot water heaters, three emergency diesel fire water pumps, two emergency river water pumps, and two emergency diesel generators. An additional LNG storage tank will be added as well.

A CALM REFLECTING pool now covers the street in front of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City, killing 168 people. Twin gates at each end of the pool are marked 9:01 and 9:03, framing the moment, 9:02, when the city and the country were changed forever by an act of domestic terrorism, on April 19, 1995. Cyndi and Paul pay visit to Okla. City bombing site

By CYNDI SELLERS

This Saturday will mark the 13th anniversary of the event that shocked and traumatized the entire nation, the bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City. Two weeks ago Paul and I visited the site of the bombing, now the Oklahoma City National Memorial and Museum.

We were visiting John and Joan Walters, who have moved back to Oklahoma following Hurricane Rita's destruction of their home and business in Holly Beach. John was a Deputy Sheriff and Fire Chief in Holly Beach and as a native Oklahoman felt a special connection to those who experienced that tragedy.

On April 19, 1995, a rented truck was parked in front of the Federal Building. At 9 a.m., in the nearby Water Resources Board meeting room, a hearing began. The secretary was recording the meeting, as usual. At 9:02 a.m., the tape recorded a massive explosion and the mass confusion which followed.

As we sat in a mock-up of that meeting room, we listened to the actual tape, the introductions of the guests and the sounds of the roaring explosion, the shouts and screams that followed, and saw pictures of the 168 people who died that day, victims, not of foreign terrorism as many immediately assumed, but home-grown, domestic terrorists. Photography is not allowed in the museum, as it would distract from the impact of the exhibits.

As we moved through the museum, it was like moving through the hours of that day, and the days, weeks and months that followed. In each room television screens showed actual footage from the rescue effort, the blood drive lines, the centers for victims' families and rescue workers. Worldwide coverage of the tragedy is shown just as it occurred.

We saw the scalpel and pocket knife with which a doctor amputated the leg of a survivor who was trapped in the rubble. We saw the gallery of the dead, with mementos for each, including children's toys for some of the 19 children who died in the daycare center that was at the front of the building.

Finally the tally was complete. The dead were recovered and mourned. Video of memorial services and funerals made us feel as though it had all happened just yesterday. Interactive touch screen computer stations provide a personal story of each victim, others allow visitors to record their thoughts and feelings.

We saw the pieces of evidence painstakingly collected to find the cause and make the case against the perpetrators. Almost the entire chassis of the truck was recovered and laid out, including identifying marks that could be traced back. Metal parts with evidence tape from the trial was on display.

Especially moving to Paul and John, the two law enforcement men, was the section about the heroes of the recovery effort, the men and women who searched for days often finding only corpses. And the rescue dogs, who were given a standing ovation at the memorial service as they limped into the arena, their paws cut and bruised even through protective boots from days of climbing over shattered glass, twisted metal, and broken concrete.

The final room in the museum is a damaged part of the Journal Record Building, preserved just as it was on April 19, 1995. We could vividly imagine being in that room when the bomb went off.

As we left the building, it was hard to breathe. We felt as if we had experienced all the trauma of the bombing

168 CHAIRS, crafted of bronze, stone and glass, represent the victims of the Oklahoma City bombing. Smaller chairs represent the 19 children who died in the day care center. The chairs are in nine rows, symbolizing the nine floors of the building, and chairs are placed according to the floor on which those killed worked or were visiting. The glass bases are lit at night as beacons of hope. (Photo by Cyndi Sellers.)

ourselves. Then we moved outside to the Outdoor Symbolic Memorial, where 168 bronze, stone and glass chairs represent the victims on the site of the demolished Murrah Building. The chairs are in nine rows, representing the nine floors of the building. The chairs are placed according to which floor the victim worked on or was visiting. Nineteen of the chairs are smaller, representing the children.

The street that once held a 35 foot crater is now a calm reflecting pool, framed at each end by "gates of time." On the east, 9:01, on the west 9:03, in the middle was 9:02 the moment when everything changed. A day like any other turned into a day of terror and death, and not just Oklahoma City but also the nation woke up to the fact that even the great United States is not a safe place to be any more.

Today we live with security measures previously undreamed of in this free country, due in part to this perpetration of domestic terror. Part of the mission of the Oklahoma City National Memorial is to make the public aware of the impact of violence. The museum guide begins: "We come here to remember those who were killed, those who survived, and those changed forever. May all who leave here know the impact of violence. May this Memorial offer comfort, strength, peace, hope and serenity."

The museum was dedicated on Feb. 19, 2001. Seven months later the World Trade Center towers were destroyed by terrorist attack.
