They are looking for ways to continue caring and compassion you or your family experienced at the hospital.

Today’s memories of the hospital’s history. The stories and letters received will be used for the anniversary celebration activities. If you would like to have a publication on the hospital and all will be placed into the hospital’s archives. Avoid polluting

Applying fertilizer carefully is one way you can check pollution. Another is by asking for a soil test from the LSU AgCenter Soil Bureau. Dr. Tom Koske also recommends common sense in the amount of fertilizer used:

- If your soil is sandy, or if you water your lawn, do not apply more than 1 pound of release nitrogen source and do not let water run off the lawn.
- Test soil every three years, and then fertilizer and lime your lawn accordingly. Apply only what is needed.
- Leave grass clippings on the lawn. This reduces materials and can reduce the amount of fertilizer you need to apply. If you remove the clippings, compost them first.
- If you water your lawn, do not let water run off the lawn. You may need to water in short cycles to achieve the deep wetting with less surface runoff.
- If you live in an area with a high water table, try to use a slow release nitrogen source, and do not apply more than 1 pound of nitrogen per 1,000 sq. ft. in one application. That may last two months.
- Fertilizers are not for gardens, lawns, trees or vegetables. They are for turf grass and are not to be used on lawns, trees or vegetables.

Avoiding the pollution of two months. Not apply more than 1 pound of release nitrogen source and do not let water run off the lawn, try to use a slow releasing nitrogen source, and do not apply more than 1 pound of nitrogen per 1,000 sq. ft. in one application. That may last two months.
